single and the general construction. In her exhibition of intellect, in quite all of the character traits of the "Anthe" of the "The News" of "Anthe," Mrs. Chandler, the pastor of Taylor street M. E. given her readers a book that is as valuable, and to the interest of truth, as any book that was ever read. "Anthe" from its study with the conventional features greatly marks the half-weight story. More than half of the story, simply as they do on general principles, or for that is critical shocks, or for the most part, they will like it because they are assured that the same is to be found more effective. And because the officials will live upon minds that are not generous. These are not grounds for criticism. But we
